

EVANS IS OUT
OF THE DESERTEl Paso Motor Cop and Geo.
Clements Both Among the Unfortunates.

BY GEO. E. CLEMENTS.

Field Headquarters, Punitive Expedition, United States Army, near Nueva Casas Grandes, Chih., Mex., April 13.—Whatever may be the effect of the expedition upon the officers and men composing the army sent to punish Villa and his bandit band for their many crimes, the casualties among the rank and file of the army of newspaper correspondents, messengers, magazine writers, photographers and feature film makers, traveling as an annex to the big show, have reached frightful proportions and that the hospital tents are not filled with the mangled and due solely to the tortures inflicted by the victims of their own carelessness.

Dick Evans, the "bicycle cop" of El Paso, who threw up a good back chasing violators of the speed regulations, to come down here to help Elser, of the New York Times, chase Villa through the fastnesses of the Sierra Madre, is muzzled at or near El Valle with a busted fiver. The Mexicans in the town or who pass him on the road give him the Ha, Ha, Ha, or the Mexican equivalent while the drivers of the army motor trucks as they speed by him on their way to or from the front give him a word of cheer but refuse to let him in.

Richardson Cuts Finger.

While all were struggling with the powers that be to send a relief expedition to bring Evans back, J. S. Richardson, who is doing the best he can to keep the New York Herald posted regarding the expedition, in spite of the censor and when the acknowledged Beau Brummel of the corps, got into an argument with his pet razor with the result that he sliced off the end of the only finger on his left hand with which he can play a tune on his typewriter. He can still shave and otherwise "hold up," but there has been a marked falling off in his output of copy since the catastrophe.

I was the next victim of disaster, so injuring myself while in Colonia Juarez forming for the correspondents' mess of which I am steward that I had to call a surgeon who recommended a return to the hospital and a month in a hospital while surgeons operated with a view toward restoring me to physical normality. I can't see my way clear to go out on the ground that this is no time for a man to leave that portion of Mexico occupied by the United States army. I have quit foraging for grub, however, leaving that to one of the mess cooks while I check and pay the bills for the bunch.

Houghtons Both Hurt.

Winfred and Ted Houghton, who, while not correspondents, have been adopted by the news authorities as messengers, seem to be pursued by the correspondents' mess and both have been the victims of accidents which have forced them to locate the mess which indicate the tests of the field hospital. Ted only squeezed his thumb to a point where he is a bit awkward when it comes to handling his mess kit, but Win slashed his foot with an ax while trying to dissect the skull of a bear with a view toward extracting the brains to be added to the menu of his favorite mess.

Damon Lynum pulled the biggest prize in the unlucky lottery while attempting to ram a horse into a corral. He was riding a horse named "Buck" and without a bridle. He mounted all right but just then he broke second to have an accident in that portion of the camp ground occupied by the artillery, and instead of meekly crossing the river as it had been accustomed to do, started on a dead run across the "parade ground" as the open space in front of the tents of the headquarters staff is facetiously called. Lynum did the best he could and as soon as he believed everybody in camp had seen the show, jumped off, landing on his left arm and hand in such fashion that he was able to hold a knife, fork or even two small pairs for several days. In the meantime Eddie Behr had to do Damon's typewriting which to him is equivalent to being himself bitten by the big dog.

Mason Drives Truck; Loses Horse.

When Gregory Mason, the long representative of the New York Outlook, came into camp, he came as a chauffeur of a motor truck loaded with supplies. When he started from Columbus, he was riding a horse which he had bought for $10 and which he had the presence of mind to ask for and get a bill of sale in due legal form. The truck train overtook Mason at Gibson's ranch. The driver of the truck, sick or suffering from cold feet, quit and the Outlook man volunteered to take the man's place and turned his horse over to a cavalry outfit to be led to this hotel.

The horse arrived in due time and was given a place on the picket line with the horses of the other correspondents until an old man appeared and said the horse was his or rather had been the property of his son, who had been murdered by Villa or his men at Boca Grande early in March. He explained that he was William Q. McKinney and that his dead son had been Arthur McKinney, who with William Corbett and Arthur O'Neill, had been lugged by Villa while the latter was on retreat from his ill-fated attack upon Agua Prieta.

The matter was taken to Mason who produced his bill of sale, but Mr. McKinney brought witnesses to identify the horse and Mason, after getting an official statement of the affair from the adjutant of the division, gave up the horse, to be added to the estate of the widow of the murdered man.

Correspondents Watch Horses Closely.

The episode has had the effect of causing all the other correspondents who bought horses at fancy prices in Columbus before crossing the border, to view with suspicion any man, young or old, seen in the vicinity of the picket line, lest he may be looking for brands to which he may lay claim and in establishing that the unfortunate purchaser of stolen property stood and with no reason to suspect that he will be carried on a motor truck as the army moves.

NEGRO SOLDIER HURT BY WAGON
13TH CAVALRYMAN BREAKS ARM

Seven sick soldiers were brought in from Columbus on the noon train Thursday for treatment in the hospital at Fort Bliss. A negro soldier from the 13th infantry was suffering from bruises and broken bones, sustained when an army wagon turned over on him. A cavalryman from the 13th had fractured right arm. The remaining sick were able to care for themselves.

Be Proud of Your Boy Easter Sunday

MOTHERS are proud of their boys at all times. No doubt of that, but a clean, manly-looking youngster all dressed up in his new Easter suit, is a sight for additional pride, if that were possible. And ordinary clothes don't go on Easter, but if you dress him in "POPULAR" CLOTHES FOR BOYS you have given him the best that money can buy. The style appearance is better, and although the price is not the lowest, the higher standard of making gives much longer wear than ordinarily. Therefore, greater economy is possible as well.

The greater wear is due to stronger fabrics and because of special attention in making at all strain-points. Pockets are re-inforced. Seams have two or three extra stitching or are taped. Canvas fronts, linings and buttons are all of better grade than usually used. Trousers are full-lined with strong twill linings, and because they often last until the boy grows too large for them they are prepared with an especially large outlet so that mothers can easily enlarge them.

Efficient, New
Easter Corsets

YES, a corset can or can not be efficient; that is, have and exercise the power to produce results. A Warner corset, properly selected and fitted, is the most efficient garment you can wear in bringing comfort and a stylish figure. A fitting here means scientific fitting. It means the very latest advance models, it means that you get a service that no other store equals. Our aim is individuality. We show special models for stout, medium and slender figures. We see to it that you get your particular model to care for the body structure properly; it also means making the best of your own good lines, which could never be done if your figure was forced into a wrong type. Do you know that Warner's line is the most extensive one made—that there is no figure that they have not a specially designed corset for? For our fitting service no extra charge is made.

For the figure with bulging thighs—they can be trained back to their proper size, it is admirably done in a special Warner's Corset made of Coult very well boned, bust 4 1/2 inches high and cut a trifle higher in back. This Corset is held very closely about the lower thighs by three firm hooks at bottom of front steel. There is an elastic lacing over thighs which gives the movement of the limbs; after wearing this Corset correctly for a few months the "bulge" will disappear, at $3.00

Warner's Corsets for the short, plump woman who really requires a low bust. Any Corset is uncomfortable that pushes up under the arms. This model has a low bust, full enough so the figure rests easily and is not pushed up. It is curved at side which gives it the smaller waist effect, the moderately long skirt is so cut that there is ample room for a moderately full figure. The back below the waist line is flat. The back wires at bottom are shorter than formerly. This Corset spells comfort for the woman who finds it very hard to get her correct model, at $2.50

Warner's Corset for the petite figure with no flesh development, which really requires only a protection at the waist line and slightly below that point, they need only the lightest and smallest form of a Corset, but it must be well made and lightly boned. These Corsets are a modification of the Corsets for the average figure, at $2.00

Other Warner Corsets $1.00 @ $1.50
